Women workers and union power

NS Report 1 Anna Coote/Peter Kellner

The first of a series of reports based on the research and writings of New Statesman staff and contributors. NS Report 1 examines why women wield so little power in the unions—why, despite women doubling their union membership in 20 years, men still run the unions and, on average, still occupy jobs that earn 36% more than women.

Anna Coote investigates the many and varied constraints on female activism as women experience them and she assesses new forms of "positive action". Peter Kellner describes the changing pattern of female employment over the last two decades and, in a remarkable new analysis of public opinion, charts the attitudes of men and women towards employment, sex roles and trade unions.

Focus 2

Labour's Battles • Trade Union Immunities • El Salvador

Jean Gardiner

Women, Recession and the Tories 5

Women made important advances in the seventies. Now Thatcherism and recession have changed all that: women are under attack. Jean Gardiner, a member of our editorial board and co-author of The Political Economy of British Capitalism, looks at what is happening.

Dave Triesman

Football in Decline 12

Football is Britain's great national winter sport. Yet it faces growing difficulties. Dave Triesman, a writer on sport, argues that football is in decline and only radical solutions can tackle the problem.

Piero Borghini

Italy: the intractable crisis 17

Italy faces the most serious political crisis in Western Europe. Piero Borghini, a member of the Central Committee of the Italian Communist Party, looks at the nature of that crisis and the PCI's strategy.

Interview with Alan Fisher 23

Cuts in public expenditure have put the public sector unions at the centre of attention. NUPE is one of the largest. In this interview, Alan Fisher, General Secretary of NUPE and Chairman of the TUC, discusses the problems facing NUPE and the trade union movement generally.

Francis Mulhern

The Cambridge Affair 27

Suddenly, the English Faculty at Cambridge University has hit the national headlines. Francis Mulhern, author of The Moment of Scrutiny, discusses the issues involved.

Discussion 29

Bill Laughlan Labour's Long Haul

The author discusses the implications of developments in the Labour Party for the Communist Party.

FOR ALL HOLIDAYS AND TRAVEL

New in Bulgaria

Summer holidays by air are available for the time to British visitors on a fine beach at Kamchiya just south of Varna. This large resort is run by Pirin the trade union country club for Bulgarians, as well as foreign visitors, and includes new hotels and motels, extensive sports facilities and boating on the Kamchiya river, a miniature Danube delta. The hotel is of a good first B Grade; all rooms have private bath and WC and vouchers valued at 11 levas a day provide copious meals at a wide choice of restaurants. The medieval city and port of Varna (18km) is reached by regular local buses. Many excursions are available and on certain dates a 7-day tour of Veliko Turnovo, Shipka, Plovdiv and Central Bulgaria can be combined with a week at the resort.

£214 fully inclusive, 2 weeks, throughout July and August, substantial child reductions.

USSR Youth Tours YK1. Youth For Peace Tour

with discussions on the theme 'Is Disarmament Possible?' at the Soviet Youth Centre at Sochi, then at Postov, Kharkov and Moscow, 1-15 August, £218.

YK2. Moscow and the Baltic

staying 5 days in Moscow in a Soviet Youth Centre at Noorus, on the Baltic near Tallin and in Leningrad, 15-29 August, £212. These tours can be combined at an inclusive cost of £360 for the month.

Socialism and Liberalism

20 February, 7.30pm

John Stuart Mill

Alan Ryan

6 March, 7.30pm

Hegelian Liberalism - T H Green

The individual/society split - in conjunction with Marx. The importance of the state (conceived in terms of rights and duties) - implications for social reform (eg state education etc) and socialism being conceived in terms of state legislation.

Charles Taylor

3 April, 7.30pm

Replacement of Liberals by Labour

Particularly in terms of ideology: how far was labour socialism a separate ideology? How far were there continuities? What was the ideological basis of the Lib/Lab Pact?

John Saville

24 April, 7.30pm

The Struggle over Forms of Socialism Between Association and Statism - late 19th/early 20th Century

Struggle for the possession of socialism between the Fabians and the working classes, and the role of the liberal tradition in this process.

Stephen Yeo

7 May, 7.30pm

Keynes

Keynesianism never fully implemented in this country, but if it were what would this mean for socialism and liberalism? Social Democrats have based policies on the possibility of attaining greater 'equality' through state intervention - while the younger Keynes undertook a radical critique of capitalism itself. Can we have an anti-statist Keynesianism? What does all this leave the debate over the Alternative Economic Strategy?

Speaker to be announced

23 May, 7.30pm

The Liberal Tradition and the Realignment of the Left

The failure of the realignment in the sixties and potential for the future: community politics and personal politics, decentralisation, the ideological basis for Lib/Lab conditions, and for possible new party - do these represent the re-emergence of Liberalism?

International Journal of The Sociology of Law

Editor: Maureen Cain

The journal regularly publishes topical issues on a wide range of topics current to sociologists and lawyers. The following Special Issues are now available from the publishers.

Volume 2, Number 4 (November 1979) 122pp., £4.90 / $14.50

The Legal Profession

The legal profession in the past has been the focus of much criticism and the subject of much research. Together, the essays investigate the importance of historical and institutional studies in the generation of new knowledge, a tradition to which the journal is committed.

Contents:

- M. Cain: The general practice lawyer and the client: towards a radical re-examination
- J.A. Folsom: Lawyers in Brazil: 1960s and 1970s
- R.P. Anderson: Lawyers and Unions in 19th-century Britain: The study of a Corporatist political and political elite in the profession of the XIXth Century
- S.D. West: A review of the legal profession in Papua New Guinea
- A. Tomasi and E. Dulcini: Lawyers' political culture in Australia

Volume 2, Number 4 (November 1980) 128pp., £6.90 / $14.50

Law and State

This issue brings together the most advanced contributions to recent labour and Marxist debates about the structure of the law capitalist state. Contributions are drawn from Britain, Germany, Portugal and the USA, for each argument has an international dimension.

Contents:

- D. Austin: On recent Marxist theories of law, the state and proletarian political theory
- A. Sussman: Property and capitalism
- R. de Souza Brito: Law and commodity: the changing nature of capital law in the capitalist state
- J. Winkler: The working class of the state
- H. Ritzer: Towards an analysis of the South African state
