POLAND: COOPERATION OR CONFRONTATION?

Interview with Mieczyslaw Rakowski 9

Over the last year Poland has captured the world's headlines. The formation of Solidarity created a situation unique in Eastern Europe. The country continues to lurch from one crisis to the next. Mieczyslaw Rakowski is Deputy Premier and the government's chief negotiator with Solidarity. In this interview he discusses relations with Solidarity and Poland's prospects for the future.

Interview with Lech Walesa 15

The leader of Solidarity discusses its role and relationship to the state. Both interviews were conducted exclusively for Marxism Today in September by Monty Johnstone.

Jeff Rodrigues

The Riots of 8118

This summer's riots have had a traumatic impact on the whole country. And their longer term consequences remain very unclear. The article examines some of the issues involved.

George Rude

The Riots in History 23

The author of The Crowd in History looks at some historical precedents for the recent riots.

Jean Gardiner and Sheila Smith

Feminism and the Alternative Economic Strategy 24

The alternative economic strategy has not only won the support of much of the labour movement but also gained wider recognition. It remains, however, at a rather general level. Here Jean Gardiner, co-author of The Political Economy of British Capitalism, and Sheila Smith, discuss what it should offer women.

Dave Priscott

Can Labour Succeed? 31

The Labour Left has, over the past two years, made impressive advances. Yet the Right remains a powerful force, and there are signs of a major electoral crisis facing Labour. Dave Priscott, a member of the Editorial Board, looks at some of the questions.
