

CLASS & COLOUR IN SOUTH AFRICA 1850-1950

by Jack and Ray Simons

The intensification of the liberation struggle in South Africa has led to a renewed demand for this book. As a critical analysis of the Labour and National Movements in South Africa it is a classic study incorporating much material drawn from primary hitherto untapped sources. While it has become essential reading for those engaged in the struggle for South African liberation, it is also an invaluable textbook for students of race relations, colonial nationalism, the class theory and South African history. This reprint by IDAF takes the place of the original edition published by Penguin African Library in 1969.

The authors, both prominent members of the Communist Party of South Africa until it was banned in 1950, have first hand knowledge of many events described in this book. Politically exiled from South Africa in 1965, they now live in Zambia.

Published by International Defence and Aid Fund for Southern Africa, July 1983. 704pp. Price £5, including p&p in the U.K. only.

Available from bookshops or direct from IDAF Publications, Canon Collins House, 64 Essex Road, London N1 8LR.

Whose World is the World?

TELEVISION PICTURES ARE SENT FROM ONE PART OF THE WORLD TO ANOTHER THROUGH SATELLITES IN SPACE. THE WORLD IS BEING BOUND TOGETHER.

FOR MANY HUNDREDS OF YEARS THE INDIANS OF SOUTH AMERICA HAD USED GOLD AND SILVER TO MAKE OBJECTS...

SUGAR WAS INTRODUCED TO THE WEST INDIES IN 1640.

SLAVES WERE FORCED TO WORK ON PLANTATIONS TO GROW SUGAR, SUGAR AND COTTON. THE PROFIT FROM THE WORK OF SLAVES WAS TRADED BETWEEN CANE MILLERS AND SUGAR MERCHANTS. THE SLAVES WERE USED TO BUILD NEW FACTORIES IN ENGLAND.

THEY WERE TO SLAVE NEGROES IN THE WORLD.

SLAVE RESISTANCE AND DREAMS OF FREEDOM LED TO THE END OF SLAVERY IN THE WEST INDIES IN 1834. THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT AND THE SLAVEHOLDERS TRIED TO PREVENT SLAVERY FROM BEING ABOLISHED IN THE WEST INDIES.

THE SLAVE TRADE WAS THE MAIN SOURCE OF WEALTH FOR THE BRITISH EMPIRE IN THE 18TH AND 19TH CENTURIES. THE SLAVES RECEIVED NOTHING.

a set of 12 posters

This set of posters provides a historical perspective for teaching in the multi-cultural school. There are twelve posters, each printed in three colours and measuring 20" x 28". They form a coherent set but are designed so that they can be presented one by one or in groups. They have been produced primarily for use across the age range in secondary schools and in Liberal Studies courses in colleges of further education.

The posters present history as experienced by workers, peasants and slaves rather than as the story of heroes and kings.

They put forward ways of understanding why there is an unequal distribution of wealth throughout the world.

They show how the question of racism cannot be separated from the world-wide development of Western economic power over the last 400 years.

Marxism & Modernism

AN HISTORICAL STUDY OF LUKÁCS, BRECHT,
BENJAMIN AND ADORNO

Eugene Lunn

Western critics have become increasingly interested in developing a Marxist aesthetic freed from the rigidities of party dogma. As a result, attention has been directed to the pivotal debates of the 1930s amongst four luminaries of German Marxist culture — between Georg Lukács and Bertolt Brecht, which focused on realism in literature, and between Walter Benjamin and Theodor Adorno, which dealt with avant-garde and mass culture in capitalist societies. Marxism & Modernism gives these wide-ranging controversies their most intensive treatment to date, analysing them in terms of the major challenge to a Marxist aesthetic in this century: the interpretation of the formal and historical meaning, and social value, of cultural modernism. £24.00

In 1850 elementary teaching was essentially a working class occupation. By 1914 it had become largely female and middle class.

explains how and why the lower middle class girl came to dominate the profession by the turn of the century and takes a look at the actual experiences of women in elementary teaching.

Karl Marx and Frederick Engels Collected Works

Volume 39: Letters 1852-1855

This volume continues Lawrence & Wishart's acclaimed project of publishing the complete correspondence of both Marx and Engels, and offers numerous insights into the lives — political and personal — of both men and their families. They illustrate the harsh privations undergone by Marx, Engels and their associates in the early years of their long exile in Britain, and also throw light on the conception and early publishing history of several major works, including The Eighteenth Brumaire and Revolution and Counter-Revolution in Germany.

Issues in the Islamic Movement

1981-82 (1401-1402)

Edited by
KALIM SIDDIQUI

The second (1981-82) volume of this highly successful annual anthology of articles reflecting the worldview of Islam is now out. In his 12,000-word introduction the editor Dr Kalim Siddiqui begins the task of describing the 'multi-dimensional reality' of the Islamic movement. The aim, he says, is to put together, piece by piece, an analytical and operational model of the Islamic movement.

The result is perhaps the most exciting, inspiring and evocative prose on the Islamic movement, the Islamic Revolution and the Islamic State being written at the present time.

There are 104 articles, a glossary, and an extensive index; pp 403.
