The 70-plus sessions on offer cover everything from Thatcherism to food, animal rights to arms conversion, TUC strategy to theatre, Fleet Street to feminism.

And there's no time to relax, with Hank Wangford, Sensible
Footwear and Benjamin Zephaniah, plus live music in the bar, swimming, jazz dance, jogging, children's entertainments, food, stalls and films.

And they will be joined by Raymond Williams, Ron Todd, Sheila Rowbotham,
Basil Davidson, Buchi
Emecheta, Tony Banks
MP, Gordon McLennan,
Stuart Hall, Ros Coward,
Jeremy Seabrook, Bob
Rowthorn, Jonathon

FEATURES

8 An Unhappy Marriage? The Labour-Union Link - Peter Hain

There was talk of going for contracting-in. Instead the Tories have plumped for something far more ambitious — severing the links between individual unions and the Labour Party. There is an awful lot at stake here.

15 Reagan's American Dream • David Plotke

It looks like Reagan again. But why has he been so successful? From a European vantage point, it doesn't seem so obvious.

22 Refurnishing the Corridors of Power • Richard Norton-Taylor

All is not well in Whitehall. The Tisdall and Ponting cases are expressions of a deeper unease. It's about Thatcherism's attempt to reshape the civil service.

24 The State — Socialism's Old Caretaker • Stuart Hall

Not so long ago, the Left was unambiguously/or state intervention, at least in a lot of areas. Now it's not so sure. It needs to sort out where it stands. Because this is one of the issues on which Thatcherism has been so effective.

31 Britain's Drug Problem • Bent Gordon

Drug-taking is on the increase. But is it as bad as some claim, and what do the new Tory proposals amount to?
