HELP ONE CONQUEST LEAD TO ANOTHER.

In March, Sir Ranulph Fiennes and his team will attempt to conquer one of the last great challenges left to man. Or rather, two of them.

They are aiming to walk unassisted to the North Pole, and in doing so, hope to raise £2 million to help the Multiple Sclerosis Society in its urgent quest for a cure.

80,000 people in this country have the disease which, as you may be aware, devastates the central nervous system and can strike anyone at any time.

There are no known causes and no known cure.

SPONSORED BY DANART

£2 million, however, would create, at a British university, a research department devoted exclusively to Multiple Sclerosis.

Your help therefore is urgently needed.

For although these men intend to walk unassisted, please make sure they don't.

For further information, post the coupon or call 0898 666600. (Calls charged at 25p per minute, cheap rate, or 38p per minute at all other times.)

Or to make a donation, call into any branch of Midland Bank.
