universities and left review club

ULR is a young movement of ideas and people, seeking to renew and rediscover the sources of their socialist conviction. The Club has become a centre of the 'New Left', asking some of the big questions about contemporary capitalism and a capitalist society. We try to have challenging speakers, and to ask them awkward questions. The purpose of the Club is to push and probe "beyond welfare capitalism".

Weekly meetings are now attended by over 300 people. During the past few months, the ULR Club, in addition to its large meetings and smaller discussion groups, initiated—

•Jt May 29th : Crisis In France—Emergency Meeting : Isaac Deutscher, Norman MacKenzie, Basil Davidson, Doris Lessing, Ralph Milliband, Abu.

•fc September 26th -29th: Scarborough Labour Party Conference Exhibition : 'The Mass Persuaders '.

In addition, the Club now has a centre at 7 Carlisle Street, a library and reading room, and downstairs is the Partisan Coffee House, which has recently opened.

The large Monday meetings are now being held at the Marquee, next door to the Academy Cinema, Oxford Street. Discussion groups meet at the Left Book Centre, 7 Carlisle Street, Soho, W.I. Meetings are advertised every week in the New Statesman and Tribune.

In our last issue we inadvertently included the name of Mr. Esag of the U.N. among the list of speakers at the International Forum. This was an error. Mr. Esag did not speak, and was not in fact invited to do so.
